2. The extract below is a transcript from an episode of The Supervet, a real-life documentary television series. In this extract, a dog-owner is consulting the vet about his dog's serious back problem.

Read the extract and then answer the question below. You should use appropriate terminology and provide relevant supporting examples.

(a) In your answer to the question that follows, you should consider:

- lexical and grammatical choices
- relevant features of spoken interactions
- contextual factors relevant to this extract as well as other examples of interactions.

Using the extract as a starting point, analyse and evaluate how participants interact in difficult situations. You must refer to other examples of spoken interactions in which speakers are facing a difficult situation in your response.

[40]

Dog owner: how bad is it (.) does she need to be put to sleep

Vet: that (.) erm (.) I'll be honest with you is worse than I thought it would be (.) when you and I put our hand on a table top, we know it's there (.) when she [the dog] puts her hand (.) her paw there she doesn't know it's there (.) so the nerve-endings are not feeding back up to her brain and her brain is not going back and saying you should do that [puts his hand down on table top] it doesn't on any foreleg (.) when we look at and we go through [points at x-ray image of dog's spine] seven vertebrae (.) one two (.) so this is two three completely normal (.) loads of space (.) right (.) spinal cord no problem nerves no problem but if you move down to the space that is squished (.) you see in fact there's no hole there at all

Dog owner: [nods]

Vet: so you have a bony genetic abnormality that makes the bones physically too big and squishing the spinal cord and it's just got worse and worse and worse

Dog owner: was this something I did or was she born with it

Vet: no no nothing that you could have done (.) she was born with it
